Attorneys for Defendant PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
SAN FRANCISCO DIVISION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

v.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY,

Defendant.

Case No. 14-CR-00175-WHA

RESPONSE TO REQUEST FOR PG&E TO SUPPLY
INFORMATION

Judge: Hon. William Alsup
Date: July 31, 2019

Defendant Pacific Gas and Electric Company (“PG&E”) respectfully submits this response to the

1 Court's July 10, 2019 Request for Offender PG&E to Supply Information, Question 2. Pursuant to the 2 Court's instruction, PG&E files this response to the Court's Question 2 separately from its response to 3 the Court's Question 1.

4 I. Response to Question 2(a).

5 The Court asks PG&E to "set forth the full amount of campaign contributions and to whom such 6 contributions were made to by PG&E since January 1, 2017." Request ¶ 2(a).

7 Between January 1, 2017 and December 31, 2018, PG&E used corporate funds¹ to make
8 contributions to political candidates, political parties, political action committees (PACs), and ballot
9 measure committees totaling $5.3 million. PG&E has not made any such contributions in 2019 to date,
10 though may do so in the coming months. Although the Court's specific question is directed at campaign
11 contributions, PG&E's corporate-funded contributions to political parties, PACs, and ballot measure
12 committees are also included here as such organizations may support campaigns.² Details regarding 13 these contributions are set forth in Exhibit A, which lists the date, amount and recipient of each donation
14 and contains links to PG&E's contribution reports publicly filed with the California Secretary of State.

15 PG&E understands the Court's request to seek information regarding the use of corporate funds
16 to make political contributions. In addition to corporate-funded donations, and pursuant to California
17 Government Code Section 81000 et seq., PG&E sponsors a California employee PAC—the "Pacific Gas
18 and Electric Company State and Local PAC"—which contributes to California state and local candidates
19 using an account funded solely by employee contributions. Similarly, pursuant to 52 U.S.C. § 30118(a),
20 PG&E also sponsors a federal employee PAC—the "PG&E Corporation Employees Energy PAC"— 21 which makes federal contributions using funds provided by employees and shareholders. Because 22 donations from these two PACs do not come from corporate funds, they are not included in Exhibit A.

24 _____
25 ¹ All PG&E political contributions are paid for by shareholders. Some PG&E employees also contribute 26 their personal funds to political action committees. PG&E does not use any customer funds for political 27 contributions. As used in this response, "corporate funds" refers to contributions paid for by PG&E 28 shareholders.

² PG&E lobbying expenses, which are publicly reported, are not campaign contributions and not included here.

1 PG&E, the PG&E Company State and Local PAC, and the PG&E Corporation Employees
 2 Energy PAC all regularly publish their campaign contributions in public, searchable reports filed with the 3 Federal Election Commission and the California Secretary of State. In addition, PG&E posts details of 4 these corporate and PAC contributions on its website at http://www.pgecorp.com/corp/about-
 5 us/corporate-governance/corporation-policies/political-engagement.page?³

6 PG&E does not believe the contributions described above were more important than utility
 7 operations, including equipment maintenance or vegetation management. PG&E's political engagement
 8 policies, programs, and practices are overseen by the boards of directors of both the corporation and the 9 utility. PG&E engages in the political process at the federal, state, and local levels of government to 10 ensure that the concerns of customers, shareholders, and employees are adequately represented before
 11 lawmakers and regulators. Policy decisions made by lawmakers and regulators at all levels significantly 12 affect the environment in which PG&E operates, especially because its core utility business is highly 13 regulated.

14 II. Response to Question 2(b).

15 The Court has asked: "PG&E has distributed almost five billion dollars in dividends prior to 16 seeking the protection of the Bankruptcy Court. Please also explain why so much was paid out in 17 dividends at a time when PG&E was aware of the problems named in the Wall Street Journal report and 18 knew of its hazard tree backlog." Request ¶ 2(b).

19 As noted in prior filings with the Court, the revenue PG&E receives from customer rates is not by 20 itself sufficient to support all of PG&E's operations and investments in infrastructure. In order to finance
 21 investments, including those to enhance the safety and reliability of its gas and electric systems, PG&E

22 _____
 23 ³ The Center for Public Accountability, in conjunction with the Zicklin Center for Business Ethics
 24 Research at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, ranks electoral spending transparency and 25 accountability among the country's largest public corporations in its annual "Index of Corporate Political 26 Disclosure and Accountability." PG&E has been recognized as a top-tier company on this index since 27 2013 and was the second highest ranking utility in 2018, with a score of 97.1 out of 100 (the average 28 score was less than 50 for other S&P 500 companies). See Ctr. for Pol. Accountability, *How Companies
 Rank in the CPA-Zicklin Index*, TrackYourCompany.com, https://www.trackyourcompany.org/cpa-
zicklin-index.html#Utilities.

1 must raise significant amounts of capital. PG&E has typically turned to equity markets to raise capital
2 for these investments, as a matter of both necessity and regulatory compliance.⁴ PG&E cannot fully
3 finance its investments with debt alone due to limitations on its debt capacity.⁵ In addition, the CPUC
4 requires PG&E to maintain a capital structure balanced between debt and equity.⁶ Accordingly, PG&E
5 has historically raised significant equity capital each year to support capital expenditures.⁷

6 Dividends reflect the portion of earnings per share (or profits) that are paid to shareholders now,
7 rather than retained by the enterprise. Dividends and infrastructure investments are not a zero sum game.
8 Rather, dividends facilitate investment in infrastructure, because the steady payment of dividends is 9 essential to raising new capital from investors. PG&E competes in the capital markets with other utilities
10 to raise equity from investors. Traditional income-oriented investors will invest only if they can 11 anticipate payment of a dividend, and certain institutional investors cannot or will not invest in equity
12 without a dividend. Moreover, dividend payments are particularly important to attract investors to utility 13 stocks, which typically enjoy relatively limited growth.⁸ The expectation of a stable dividend is one of 25 balance, including PG&E’s, is a part of the CPUC’s ratemaking function. See *Ponderosa Tel. Co. v.

26 Pub. Utils. Comm.*, 197 Cal. App. 4th 48, 51-52 (2011) (In determining a utility’s “authorized rate of (noting that “utility stocks pass on a decent portion of their profits to shareholders through stable dividends” but that “there’s not much growth”).

1 the top reasons that investors purchase utility stocks.⁹ Utility stocks are therefore often ranked by 2 analysts based on the dividends they provide, and the demand for a stock can be negatively affected if
 3 investors are uncertain whether dividends will be cut or eliminated.¹⁰ For example, when PG&E
 4 suspended its dividend in the fourth quarter of 2017 in order to conserve cash due to potential wildfire
 5 liabilities, its stock value immediately fell precipitously.¹¹ At least part of the stock drop was likely 6 attributable to suspension of the dividend. Accordingly, utilities regularly pay shareholder dividends
 7 except in extremely unusual circumstances.

8 When deciding upon the level of dividends to issue, PG&E has traditionally considered three 9 objectives in the exercise of its business judgment:

- 10 • Comparability: Pay a dividend competitive with the securities of comparable companies based 11 on payout ratio (the proportion of earnings paid out as dividends) and, with respect to PG&E Corporation, yield (i.e., dividend divided by share price).
- 12 • Flexibility: Allow sufficient cash to pay a dividend and to fund investments while avoiding the 13 necessity to issue new equity unless PG&E Corporation's or the Utility's capital expenditure 14 requirements are growing rapidly and PG&E Corporation or the Utility can issue equity at reasonable cost and terms; and
- 15 • Sustainability: Avoid reduction or suspension of the dividend despite fluctuations in financial 16 performance except in extreme and unforeseen circumstances.

 gas, water and electricity services. In this context, equity-focused investors looking for stable dividend and interest income can invest in utilities.”).

25 ¹¹ The day after PG&E's December 20, 2017 announcement that it was suspending payment of 26 dividends, PG&E's stock dropped over 15 percent. See Tracey Lien, PG&E's stock dives after it
 27 suspends dividend, citing potential wildfire liabilities, L.A. Times (Dec. 21, 2017), <https://www.latimes.com/business/technology/la-fi-pge-dividend-stock-20171221-story.html> (“PG&E's
 28 stock was trading at $43.19 about 8:40 a.m. Pacific Time. That was down 15.5% on the day and down 37.3% from its closing price Oct. 6, the last trading day before the fires began.”).

1 Achieving these objectives has facilitated PG&E's continued ability to attract new equity
2 investment to fund its operations and capital investments, including investments in safety.

4 Between 2012 and 2017, PG&E paid about $5.1 billion in dividends, but shareholders contributed
5 $6.5 billion of new capital and reinvested earnings into the business for infrastructure investments—
6 which included investments in safety—during this same period, resulting in a net contribution by 7 shareholders of $1.4 billion. PG&E's net gain in capitalization in the 2012-2017 time period
8 demonstrates the importance of continuous and stable dividend payments to building the resources
9 necessary to make new capital investments, including investments in safety.

10 During this same time period, however, PG&E increased its dividend payment only once, in 11 2016, by approximately 6 percent. Until 2016, the dividend had not been increased since 2010. As 12 PG&E's annual reports for 2011 through 2013 explained: "As the Utility focuses on improving the safety
13 and reliability of its natural gas and electric operations, and subject to the outcome of the matters
14 described under 'Natural Gas Matters' below, PG&E Corporation expects that its Board of Directors will 15 maintain" its dividend.¹² By contrast, between 2011 and 2015, PG&E's peers had increased their 16 dividends by an average of 5 percent per year, or roughly 20 percent in total.

17 Moreover, PG&E's payout ratio—the portion of earnings paid out as dividends—has likewise
18 been at the lower end of its competitors in the capital markets. During the period of 2012-2015, PG&E's
19 peer utilities targeted an adjusted dividend payout ratio range of 50-70 percent of earnings.¹³ In other 20 words, for every dollar of earnings, utility peers would seek to pay investors up to 70 cents in dividends,

28 ¹³ An "adjusted" payout range is one that irons out non-recurring or unforeseen expenses that may take place in any given year. Such expenses reduce earnings per share, and if dividends are held constant, would increase the dividend payout ratio: if the total amount of earnings is smaller, but dividends remain the same, the ratio of dividends to earnings will be higher.

1 and retain only 30 to 50 cents in the business. PG&E targeted a similar adjusted payout ratio range
2 (which it modified to 55-65 percent in 2016), retaining 35 percent to 45 percent of earnings in the 3 business. Despite this target, as PG&E explained in its 2011 annual report, it expected dividends to 4 remain at the lower end of that range so that equity funding was readily available to support capital
5 investment needs.¹⁴ Over the 2012-2017 time period, the adjusted dividend payout ratio for fifteen
6 comparable U.S. utilities averaged about 63 percent, while PG&E's average adjusted dividend payout
7 ratio over that same period was 54 percent.

8 As the Court is aware, in late 2017 following the North Bay wildfires, PG&E suspended payment
9 of dividends. As a result of this decision and the reasons underlying it, PG&E has not raised any new 10 equity in the market¹⁵ and has instead raised new debt, including debtor-in-possession financing. A 11 critical element of the plan of reorganization to emerge from bankruptcy will be to establish conditions
12 that will enable PG&E to raise new equity capital. That, in turn, will require payment of a dividend that 13 will allow PG&E to compete successfully with other utilities to attract equity investment.

14 In sum, the payment of dividends and the performance of work on all aspects of PG&E's system
15 are not an "either/or" calculus. On the contrary, they are mutually reinforcing, as dividend payments are 16 essential to PG&E's ability to continue to attract the capital needed to make required investments in 17 safety and other aspects of PG&E's operations.
