Multi-Sport Competition to Draw Hundreds of Participants from Across West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W.Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--The 26th annual West Virginia Senior Sports Classic (WVSSC), the multi-sport competition for seniors, will be held Thursday, May 2 through Saturday, May 4, 2019, primarily in the Charleston area. For the first time, leading health and well-being company Humana Inc. (NYSE:HUM) will be the games' presenting sponsor.

Several hundred athletes from West Virginia and beyond are expected to participate, ranging in age from 50 to 90+. They will compete within age groups in 17 individual and team sports, including archery, basketball, cycling, golf, pickleball, racquetball, softball, swimming, tennis, track and field, and volleyball. Medals will be awarded for first-, second-, and third-place finishes in each sport.

"We're excited to begin our second quarter-century of hosting this outstanding competition for our state's senior athletes, who take great pride in taking part in this special event," said Harold Vealey, Director of the West Virginia Senior Sports Classic. "Sports, recreation, and exercise enhance our quality of life, and we salute the dedicated participants who give these games their all."

The public is invited to come watch the competitions, which will be held mainly at venues in and around Charleston. The racquetball competition will take place in Shepherdstown, West Virginia.

"This multi-sport event is a wonderful way for these inspiring athletes to come together in the spirit of competition and fellowship, and for West Virginians to have the chance to celebrate and support them," said Eric Bohannon, Humana Regional President for Medicare in West Virginia. "Humana is thrilled to be the games' presenting sponsor, a reflection of our dedication to the health and well-being of the communities we serve across the state."
