

Guidelines for Stockholder Communications with the Board of Directors
As Amended, Effective August 14, 2019

Policy Statement

As a stockholder of Juniper Networks, Inc. (the “Company”), you may contact any of our directors by writing to them by mail or express mail c/o Juniper Networks, Inc., 1133 Innovation Way, Sunnyvale, California 94089. Employees and others who wish to contact the Company’s Integrity and Compliance Group or any member of the Audit Committee to report questionable accounting or auditing matters may also contact our directors by using this address. Employees may report such concerns on an anonymous basis, as set forth in the Company’s Worldwide Code of Business Conduct.

Each communication should set forth (1) the name, address, and email address, if any, of the stockholder, as it appears on the Company’s books, and if the Company’s common stock is held by a nominee, the name and address of the beneficial owner of the Company’s common stock, and (2) the number of shares of the Company’s common stock that are owned of record by the record holder and beneficially by the beneficial owner.

Internal Procedure for Stockholder Communications

1. Any stockholder communications directed to the Board of Directors or any member of the Board of Directors (other than concerns regarding questionable accounting or auditing matters directed directly to the Audit Committee) will first go to the General Counsel, who will log the date of receipt of the communication as well as (for non-confidential communications) the identity of the correspondent in the Company’s stockholder communications log.
2. Unless the communication is marked “confidential,” the General Counsel will review, summarize and, if deemed appropriate in the exercise of the General Counsel’s judgment, draft a response to the communication in a timely manner. The summary and response will be in the form of a memo, which will become part of the stockholder communications log that the General Counsel maintains with respect to all stockholder communications. Communications regarding individual grievances or other interests that are personal to the party submitting the communication and could not reasonably be construed to be of concern to the securityholders of the Company will be handled in accordance with the Company’s established procedures for these types of communications.
3. At least quarterly, or more frequently as the General Counsel deems appropriate, the General Counsel will forward all such original stockholder communications along with the related memos to the Board of Directors, the Lead Independent Director, Chairman of the Board or the independent directors of the Board, as applicable, for review. The Company’s acceptance and forwarding of a communication to the Board of Directors or any of its member does not imply that the Board of Directors or any of its members owe or assume any fiduciary duty to the person submitting the communication, all such duties being only as prescribed by applicable law.
4. Any stockholder communication marked “confidential” will be logged by the General Counsel as “received” but will not be reviewed, opened or otherwise held by the General

Counsel. Such confidential correspondence will be promptly forwarded to the addressee(s) without a memo or any other comment by the General Counsel.

These guidelines do not apply to (a) communications to non-employee members of the Board from members of the Board or officers of the Company who are stockholders, or (b) stockholder proposals submitted pursuant to Rule 14a-8 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.
