

RR Donnelley Introduces Roundtable(TM) Secure Collaboration Solution

May 09, 2013

Easy-to-Use Platform for Document Management Features Cloud Storage

CHICAGO, May 9, 2013 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- R. R. Donnelley & Sons Company (Nasdaq:RRD) today introduced Roundtable, a cloud-based document management platform designed to enhance the speed and security of global business collaboration. The Roundtable solution provides clients with a platform to securely manage and share content internally as well as externally with professional advisors, counsel and consultants.

"We provide a continuum of services that enable secure collaboration and document review ranging from Roundtable to our Venue® virtual data room solution," said Tom Juhase, President of RR Donnelley's Financial Services offering. "Roundtable offers an affordable, quickly implemented means of boosting security and flexibility for everyday document management. Its versatility allows users to interact from their desktops or mobile devices."

Built with RR Donnelley's industry-leading content management resources and incorporating capabilities from technology providers including Google and Microsoft, the Roundtable platform offers an intuitive, user-friendly interface. It allows professionals to quickly and securely upload, store and share files of virtually any type from anywhere in the world.

"Roundtable is an ideal fit for business professionals who routinely need a level of document security, the ability to move large files and the productivity associated with collaborative tools," added Juhase. "When clients require the added features and functionality of a virtual data room, RR Donnelley offers a seamless way for them to migrate into our full service deal management platform."
