NiSource announces Investor Relations leadership transition

MERRILLVILLE, Ind. - NiSource Inc. (NYSE: NI) today announced a transition in its Investor Relations leadership. Chris Turnure, Senior Director of Investor Relations, is leaving NiSource to pursue another opportunity effective March 14.

Shawn Anderson, Chief Financial Officer, will assume Investor Relations responsibilities to ensure continued proactive outreach to investors and financial stakeholders while the company conducts a search for Turnure's successor.

"Chris has been a valued member of our finance team for four years, building important bridges with the investment community during a period of significant financial growth for NiSource and helping to shape our business and growth plan," Anderson noted.

"We support Chris' passion for investment across the financial sector and wish him nothing but the best in his next endeavor. For NiSource, we continue to look forward to staying engaged with our investors during and after this transition, and NiSource will continue to move forward with implementing our robust business strategy to drive growth and increased value for investors and the customers we serve."
