Part II Organizational Action Attach additional statements if needed. See back of form for additional questions.

14 Describe the organizational action and, if applicable, the date of the action or the date against which shareholders' ownership is measured for the action ► On November 15, 2025, Pacific Gas & Electric Company (PG&E) paid a quarterly distribution to its preferred shareholders of record as of October 31, 2025. Previously, on August 15, 2025, May 15, 2025 and February 15, 2025, PG&E paid a quarterly distribution to its preferred shareholders of record as of July 31, 2025, April 30, 2025 and January 31, 2025, respectively. See statement attached for details. The return of capital treatment explained below applies to the November 15, 2025 distribution, August 15, 2025 distribution, May 15, 2025 distribution, and February 15, 2025 distribution for federal income tax purposes only. See Question 19 below for more details.

15 Describe the quantitative effect of the organizational action on the basis of the security in the hands of a U.S. taxpayer as an adjustment per share or as a percentage of old basis ► The character of a distribution as either a dividend or a return of capital for federal income tax purposes depends on PG&E's calculation of actual 2025 earnings and profits for the full year. Based on the actual calculation of current year earnings and profits, 100% of the distributions paid on November 15, 2025, August 15, 2025, May 15, 2025, and February 15, 2025 are not dividends and will be treated as a nontaxable return of capital to the extent of the preferred shareholders' tax basis. Any amount in excess of a preferred shareholder's tax basis will be treated as a gain for federal income tax purposes. Preferred shareholders should consult their own tax advisors to determine the income tax consequences of their specific situation. PG&E is providing this form for informational purposes only. See Question 19 below for more details.

16 Describe the calculation of the change in basis and the data that supports the calculation, such as the market values of securities and the valuation dates ► Under Internal Revenue Code sections 301 (c) and 316(a), the taxability of the above distributions is based on PG&E's earnings and profits calculated pursuant to section 312 for federal income tax purposes. PG&E's calculation of actual current year and accumulated earnings and profits applicable to 2025 distributions supports the disclosure that 100% of the November, 15, 2025, August 15, 2025, May 15, 2025, and February 15, 2025 distributions are a nontaxable return of capital to the extent of the preferred shareholders' tax basis, for federal income tax purposes. See Question 19 below for more details.

Part II Organizational Action (continued)

17 List the applicable Internal Revenue Code section(s) and subsection(s) upon which the tax treatment is based ► _____

Internal Revenue Code sections 301(c), 312, and 316(a).

18 Can any resulting loss be recognized? ► The actions disclosed herein do not result in a loss for federal and California income tax purposes.19 Provide any other information necessary to implement the adjustment, such as the reportable tax year ► The actions described herein are effective on the dates described above and on the schedule attached. The taxable year impacted is 2025, for calendar year taxpayers. Preferred shareholders should consult their own tax advisors to determine the income tax consequences of their specific situation.California Differences:

For federal income tax purposes the 2025 distributions are characterized as return of capital since Corp has a deficit in its current year and accumulated earnings and profits. However, for California income tax purposes the 2025 distributions are taxable as a dividend since Corp has positive current year earnings and profits. Shareholders should consult their tax advisor regarding the different federal and California reporting requirements.
